Meet Judy Binkley

Judy lives in North Cornwall Township and began volunteering for Habitat for Humanity more than five years ago.

Judy was retired and considering volunteer opportunities when she saw an article in the paper expressing Habitat’s need for volunteers. “It’s a very worthwhile cause,” stated Judy, “We renovate houses to give a second chance...and the sweat equity hours our partner families put into their homes make them more important to them. They deserve a hand up!”

Judy volunteered in the Habitat office for several years and now serves on the family selection committee. She also helps with various fundraising events. When she’s not volunteering with Habitat, Judy can be found working as a substitute in the cafeteria at Cedar Crest or knocking down pins in her Tuesday morning bowling league. She also enjoys boating, camping, reading, and spending time at the beach in Fenwick Island, Del.

We are so glad that Judy’s search led her to Habitat and that she finds time in her busy schedule to volunteer with us!
